COMMENT

For 17 years the two radio stations of the Yale Broadcasting Co. could only be received on the Yale campus. Last year WYBC-FM began broadcasting to the greater New Haven area. Much of our programming since then has been geared toward acquainting our New Haven listeners with Yale and its undergraduates.

We feel that since we can now be heard throughout Southern Connecticut we are not only representing Yale but we are an integral part of and representative of New Haven.

The role of a radio station in the community has never been completely understood or defined. Whereas it is considered the right and almost the duty of a newspaper to make editorial comment, very few radio stations have chosen to do so. The vast majority have been content to follow a 'music, news, and sports' format with very little effort made to add culturally to the community. Our program format has always been one which we feel is a cultural addition. There is one thing lacking in this format, though. Seldom have we expressed our ideas and opinions as members of the New Haven Community.

We have decided now to spend a few minutes a day expressing our observations, suggestions, and opinions on local and national issues. For this reason we have initiated the series called Comment which can be heard at 4:05, 7:10, and 11:15 on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

Admittedly this is an experiment. The only way we will have of judging your reaction to this experiment will be through the comment received from you.

Philip A. Champlin,
Chairman

JAZZ AT WYBC-FM

Throughout the country during the past decade, there has been a tremendous increase in the interest in jazz, especially progressive and modern jazz. However, very few radio stations have realized this fact, as evidenced by the minute number of stations featuring daily jazz programming.

Realizing listener interest in jazz, WYBC-FM created a jazz department early this fall, whose purpose is to plan and coordinate effective jazz programming. This primary purpose has since been expanded to include a jazz poll and, sometime in the future, one or two jazz concerts here in New Haven.

Our programming consists of more than just shows of recorded jazz. Pardon Our Progress, for instance, is not merely two hours of jazz records, but includes pertinent information on both jazz theory and artists. Each show is built around a central theme (e.g. 'The Nature of the Blues'), and interviews with jazz personalities; such as Teddy Wilson and Willy Ruff, are frequent. Furthermore, every Friday night at 10:30 there is a live jazz broadcast from the Playback Club in New Haven.

Another example of unusual programming is Sunday night's Homology. The jazz and Classical Music Departments combine to produce this show, comparing jazz with the classics in an effort to show various interrelationships between the two forms of music. It should be noted that this program is designed for people both with and without a background in music.

Rounding out the jazz scene at WYBC-FM is a request program, Afterglow, beginning at 2:00 A.M. Even at this late hour, people want to hear jazz, especially if they can choose what will be played.

Thus, our jazz programming is varied, original and, above all, entertaining. Complete listings of all the programs, including the jazz that will be heard on them, are contained in the program section of this guide.
